

Statement of Joseph Hicks
Candidate for Steering Committee
Environment, Energy, & Natural Resources Law Community

If elected to the D.C. Bar Environment, Energy and Natural Resources Steering Committee, I would bring years of in energy law experience and a proven track record of bar leadership to the role. My hope is to leverage my experience to assist bar members in understanding and adapting to a rapidly changing energy law landscape.

My practice has encompassed most aspects of energy regulation, including electric generation, oil and gas, hydropower, and renewables, with an emphasis on renewable hydrogen. My matters have included litigation, infrastructure development, including environmental approvals, and managing mergers and acquisitions of energy companies.

I also have substantial leadership experience in the energy law space. I have served on the Energy Bar Association Professional Education and Oil and Liquids Committees and serve as an editor of the Energy Law Journal. I humbly ask for your vote to continue my volunteer service as a member of this committee.
