

DAVID P. KAPLAN

David Kaplan is Vice Chairman and a member of the Board of Managers at BRG. He specializes in antitrust economics, including damages analyses; damages assessments in intellectual property matters; and analysis of damages issues related to general commercial litigation. Mr. Kaplan has a particular focus on matters involving possible class certification.

He has testified as an economic expert in both federal and state courts, before arbitration panels and regulatory agencies, and before Congress. Mr. Kaplan has also served as a consultant to the Federal Trade Commission's Bureau of Economics, the Department of Justice, and the Senate Judiciary Committee.

He has taught business statistics in the MBA program at John Hopkins University (10 years) and economics at George Mason University (10 years). Mr. Kaplan has also served as a guest lecturer at Columbia University, George Washington University, and the University of Utah.