

Statement of John Anwesen
Candidate for Steering Committee
International Law Community

I am excited for the opportunity to serve on the International Law Community Steering Committee. Thank you for considering my candidacy. Please see my bio below.

John Anwesen is the Founding Shareholder of Lighthill. John is an advocate with a vision of a connected world. He has assisted many companies to remain competitive in the U.S. market, and even completely defeat import duties, through successful defense of their business. John strives to provide solutions for his clients by thinking outside the box and discovering those details that reframe the narrative of the bigger picture.

John advises on a variety of international trade matters, with a focus on antidumping (AD) and countervailing duty (CVD) proceedings, other trade remedy proceedings, such as Sections 232 and 301 investigations and duties, customs matters, export controls, and sanctions. John also defends clients in U.S. agency investigations and related litigation and dispute resolution. His background includes leading AD and CVD cases while working for the U.S. government, as well as advising and defending clients from a wide range of industries in the private sector. With a near decade-long involvement in international trade matters, John has valuable insights and technical knowledge to provide the highest product and service quality for his clients.
